

American Indian Studies Seminar / Colloquium Series 400 Caldwell Hall

THIS CLASS IS OPEN TO THE PUBLIC (Enrollment is not required)

August 29

Eric Cheyfitz, Ernest I. White Professor of American Studies and Humane Letters, Cornell University

"Chapter Three: The Palimpsest of History: William Apess's Anti Jeremiad Jeremiad"

September 12

Ros Beadle, Cornell University, visiting scholar

"Positioning self as researcher: Working with Indigenous women in a remote Australian Community"

September 26

Audra Simpson, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Anthropology, Columbia University

"Mohawk Interruptus"

October 10

Pollyanna Nordstrand, Graduate Student, History of Art & Visual Studies, Cornell University

"TBA"

October 17

David Wilkins, Professor, American Indian Studies, University Minnesota

"The Cobell Settlement: An Accounting Coup"

October 31

Michelle Baumflek, PhD Candidate, Dept. of Natural Resources, Cornell University

"Practicing Health Sovereignty: A Trans-Boundary Case Study of Maliseet and Mi'kmaq Communities in Maine and New Brunswick"

November 14

Justin B. Richland, Associate Professor, University of Chicago

"TBA"

AIS 6010 is a Graduate-level course introducing students to ongoing research in the field of American Indian Studies in a proseminar / colloquium format.

Advanced graduate students, within the field, are expected to present their work in progress; all are expected to attend each seminar and provide presenters with critical and constructive commentary on papers.

The class is held on:
Wednesday from 10:10 to 11:40 am.

*Enroll in AIS 6010 to receive
(1) credit for your participation.*

Seminar is led by Dr. Paul Nadasdy, Director of the Graduate Field of American Indian Studies and Associate Professor in the Department of Anthropology, 255-4040 | pn79@cornell.edu

American Indian Program
4th Floor of Caldwell Hall

p. 607-255-6587 | f. 607-255-6246
e. aioffice@cornell.edu
Web: <http://ain.cornell.edu/>